ADMISSION FEE ADVOCATED. Evernight Events With 8500 Purses Will Be Acceptable to Small Owners on Local Raccourses—How Millionaires

Can Help-Simon Pure's Development. The small horse owners are doing a lot of corrying these days. They all hope that the lat they will have a chance to win feed money in the overnight events. One of these owners man who has been racing for thirty years, and who knows much about the inside workings of the turf, said to THE SUN reporter

"If the members of the Jockey Club will make personal sacrifices at this time racing can go on forever and be a source of profit, too. These big $25,900 stakes are all wrong at this time. Most of them are at the mercy of a handful of millionaire turfmen, including sars. Keene, Belmont and Whitney. These gentlemen have breeding farms which they prize highly, but which will be worth practi-cally nothing if racing stops. If they wish to cooperate with the racing associations hey can easily do so by agreeing to a reducof the added money in the stakes. xample would influence all of the other subcribers to these events so that a tremendous maneial burden would be lifted from the ulders of the racetrack owners.

"Instead of having $20,000 as a guaranteed which will be won by Mr. Keene, the value of that race could be reduced to, may, $5,000. Other rich stakes could be reduced in proion, so that the racing associations could well afford to give $500 purses in the overhight events, for which we poor men would be very glad to run our horses. By putting n five races a day and reducing the adon to the grand stand to $1, with a fifty ent fee for the field, racing for the rest of his year could be made to pay. The track wners would have probably 10 per cent. idends, instead of 40. They could pay heir taxes and still preserve their property. There is so much general interest in the turf hat an arrangement of this kind would al to the public, which, in my opinion, rants to see the turf saved from utter ruin. The present $3 tariff to the grand stand considered excessive by many racetrack men who are studying the present situation. They say that people will not pay such a rate with practically no chance to indulge in public betting, but that a dollar fee would be a hardship for the thousands who ove the sport and like to see the horses run. is expected that the Suburban Handicap on Friday will attract a large crowd, but it is thought that if the rates of admission the Sheepshead Bay track were reduced here would be a far greater attendance on

Simon Pure looked, as a yearling, as if he would evelop into a good horse and in his tworear-old form Cooley thought he might win the Puturity. But Simon Pure did not come up to expectations. So Cooley finally sold him last year to George Saportas, his present three times this year in cross-country events and has won twice. GOLD LADY WINS MARLBORO. HARVARD OARSMEN SUSPENDED. Aste's Mare Easily Beats Home Again and Running Water at Gravesend.

Three favorites and two seconds choice won races at Gravesend yesterday. A. L. Aste's Gold Lady, 8 to 5, after waiting behind the pacemakers, Home Again, 4 to 1, and Half Sovereign, 8 to 1, to the head of the stretch, seniors and who would have graduated this month, were charged with having broken a college regulation in taking reference books from Childe Memorial Library. Both men will be unable to row against Yale next week.

The offence was that Fish and Morgan instead of using the library simply as a reference library, from, which no books are to be taken under any circumstances, went to the shelves and took the books they wanted and then slipped them under their coats and left the building. Harvard men say that, in spite of the very strict regulation against this sort of thing, it is done very often by students who do not wish to do their studying in the library. It is not charged that the men intended to steal the books. breezed to the front and won the Mariboro Handicap, for mares ,at a mile and a sixteenth, Again ran second, a length and a half before Running Water, 3 to 5, who seemed anchored with 129 pounds. The other stake event, the Kensington Steeplechase, at about two miles, was easy for the Bonnie Brook Stable's Simon Pure, 7 to 5, who ran a fine race and beat J. W. Colt's Hars, 7 to 5, by three lengths in 3:50. J. E. Widener's Dick Spaw, 8 to 1, was five lengths back.

Chepontuc, 8 to 5, after being practically left, won the first race, for two-year-olds, at about six furiongs, in splendid style. King Cobalt, with top weight and quoted at 2 to 1, ran off with the handicap for three-year-olds, beating Alfred Noble, 8 to 5, in a gallop. Rye, 4 to 1, was successful in the firth event, at a mile and a furlong, while Uncle Jim, 3 to 5, took the last race for two-year-olds, at five and a half furlongs. The summaries:

The first of the Olympic team to head for England is Daniels the swimmer, who sails to-day on the Lusitania. It takes longer for an aquatic man to get used to English water so Danny is going early to have a bit of a preparation before his event comes off in the Stadium tank. On his arrival in England, it is understood, he will have a splash in some of the big swimming pools for the purpose of limbering up and will take in a few of the sprinting competitions at the different club galas. Fearing that there might be a misunderstanding why Daniels should go on a better ship than the regular team Manager Halpin said yesterday that the swimmer will foot the extra expense himself. Hugh H. Baxter, the millionaire athlete and ex-champion pole vaulter, is going on the Lusitania. He will stay outside London during the games and will drive to Shepherd's Bush every day in an auto.

Frank Beaurefaire, the phenomenal Australian youngster, has arrived in England and will take part in all the swims from a quarter to the mile. The Colonial will be looked after by Walter Brickett while in England. His first dip in English water was in the Highgate pond with the water at 59 degrees. The temperature made the Australian wink, nevertheless he gave a fine exhibition of speed. The critics put him down as "a splendid stayer with a grand leg action, which he times beautifully with the overarm trudge." Another Australian, named Springfield, went with Beaurefaire.

LAWN TENNIS. Invitation Tournament at Crescent A. C. Starts-Other Fixtures.

The invitation lawn tennis tournament at the Crescent A. C., Bay Ridge, was started yesterday, two matches being played. Because of a strained shoulder William A. Larned has been forced to withdraw from the round robin, and therefore his partner, George L. Wrenn, Jr., will take no partin the series either. To take their places C. M. Bull, Jr., and H. C. Martin of the Crescent

A. C. volunteered to play.

Irving C, Wright and Edwin P. Larned won their match from Bull and Martin yes-terday in straight sets, 9-7, 6-3, 6-3. The first set was a good example of pluck on the part of Buil and Martin. They were the part of Buil and Martin. They were behind 4—2 in the set and pulled up on even terms eventually at five-all. The last six games of the first set went to deuce, and it was only by the hardest struggle that Wright and Larned achieved victory. The points for the sets were 60—59, 30—21, 28—19.

In the other match E. W. Leonard and R. D. Little defeated T. R. Pell and C. F. Watson, Jr., after five sets. Pell had been playing for a week on dirt courts at Hartford and ascribed his erratic play to that. The steadiness and better all round play of the winners was perhaps a better reason for their success. Pell and Watson were unable to get away with games in which they often had three points before their opponents scored at all. It was simply and solely greater steadiness and generalship that won for Little and Leonard, although the match was pretty poor tennis. The score of the match was 6—3, 3—6, 6—4, 5—7, 6—2 in favor of Little and Leonard, The points were 25—33, 38—42, 37—36, 35—38, 29—23. The tournament of the Amackassin Club got under way yesterday at the courts in Yonkers. Thirty-two players were drawn in the men's singles to provide a challenger for the Tailant cup against G. F. Touchard. The summary:

Amackassin Club Tournament: Men's Singles—Pirst round—G. Salinger. New York city, defeated Dr. Ewing Taylor, West Side T. C., 6—1, 6—2; J. B. Blshop, Universit Heights F. C., defeated E. W. HOT FIGHT WITH YALE IN CAMBRIDGE, June 16 .- Bidney W. Fish and Charles Morgan, Jr., members of the Harvard rowing squadron, have been suspended from college by the administrative body of the university. The men, both of whom are seniors and who would have graduated this DECIDING BASEBALL GAME.

Many Errors by the Princeton Players, but .They Do Better Work With the Bat Than Their Rivals-Fine Pitching by Heyniger in Pinches-Score, 4 to 2.

A fielding transgression by Yale, after making a stubborn uphill fight practically all the way, decided the third game of the Yale-Princeton baseball series, played at the Polo Grounds yesterday, in favor of Princeten. This occurred in the eleventh inning, meant two runs for the Tigers and a final score of 4 to 2. Often as the Blue and the game in this city there never has been a more interesting or more exciting clash here between them and none in which so many blunders were made or with so many chances to score presented and lost.
Princeton's fielding was atrociously bad.

while Yale's most costly deficiency was inability to get men home when they were GALES FERRY, June 16.—There is deep gloom at Red Top, for Harvard is mourning on the bases. The figures in the summary are eloquent evidence of what Yale didn't when there were ripe chances. Sixteen of the Eli base runners were marooned on the bags and one or more of the New Haven men was on base in every inning of the eleven. varsity four a few days ago, was shifted to Fish's seat and Reece is now stroking the quartet. G. G. Bacon was drawn from the substitute list and occupies the seat vacated by Morgan. Fish arrived from Cambridge this afternoon to get his belongings and will return home to-morrow.

No attempt was made to speed the Crimson eight to-day. Coach Wray giving Cutler a chance to break into the boat in a four mile paddle down stream. In fielding Princeton's playing was a vacant lot performance compared to Yale's, barring The Tigers made ten errors, Yale two. Yet one of Yale's two was more costly than all of Princeton's ten. "They play a game called baseball in New Jersey," the Princeton partisans sang, and though the kind of baseball played by the Jerseymen yesterday was exceedingly poor in some respects it nevertheless was the kind that won. The Princetonians had a habit of tighten-ing up every time when their misplays had thrown the door wide open to Yale. No matter how wabbly they were they pulled themselves together and were reliable when it was absolutely necessary that they should be. In fact the morale of both teams was admirable: Princeton's because of the fibre that was there to stiffen in time to prevent going to pieces. Yale's because of constantly trying and recovering quickly and keeping a stiff upper lip when things were breaking The dominant figure in Princeton's holding together and repelling the Yalensians time after time on the bases was Heyniger, the big pitcher. Heyniger has just come a scholarship cropper at Old Nassau and therefore won't be eligible for the varsity nine next year, so he may have felt that it was up to him to make an effective exit. He gave a rare exhibition of a pitcher rising to the situation in pinches. His support was enough a rare exhibition of a pitcher rising to the situation in pinches. His support was enough to turn his hair gray, though, as has been told; it had the saving grace of not prolonging its waywardness until men had crossed the plate. Heyniger is said to have lost some of his speed since last year, but for this game he had a lot of speed the occasional times he felt it advisable to use that commodity. With change of pace he had a wide curve, and, though worrying his rooters often by wildness, he was keyed up to the proper pitch whenever Yale threatened the plate.

Van Vleck of Yale was not as efficient as Heyniger in staving off the hits, and the Tigers did better work with the bat than their adversaries, but Van Vleck pitched a highly creditable game none the less. In the latter part he was as effective as Heyniger when men were on bases, and but for Dines's expensive and duplex blunder in the final inning the game would not have ended there. Yale's fielding was splendid on the whole, clean and fast, particularly on the left side. Murphy and Clifford in the outfield and Williams and Feis, inner guards, played brilliantly.

In such things as the hit and run, bunting, stealing bases and fast moving by the fielders to make base hits as little damaging as possible Yale showed a better quality of work than the Princetonians. It may be that their tactics were refined too much in inside play. The Tigers knew more about banging the ball on the nose than the Elis, at least they banged it harder. They didn't miss chances to sting the good ones when they came over, as Yale did. They were there with the old stuff—whatever that indefinable quality may be—that crowds its way to the front. Often a mile up in the air in their fielding and giving their opponents all sorts of openings, they were sharp to see and seize chances to redeem themselves. For instance, they weren't asleep on a couple of plays when Yale appeared to have them going and failed to follow up the advantage with vigilance on the bases. Two louds have happened othe

The clouds and rains of Monday cleared away and gave the college players a beautiful day for their deciding battle. The conditions are to be the college players a beautiful day for their deciding battle. The conditions are to be a seried and a seried was an emeral green, the sky a deep clean washed blue. It was a high sky, however—no clouds to help the fielders gauge fly balls; but any mer technical defect in the setting was a small matter in view of the general glitter and gladness which such a day promotes. It was distinctly a day for finery and conventional none toul and so may be a so to to warm up a bit to a seene so illumined by the radiance of air and sky.

There was attring action in the very first inning. The Tigers batted first and Fish lifted a fly to Clifford, which that player enmeshed after peering through the sun. Vaughn did better. He outfooted a grounder for some the sun and t have a chance to get him. Jones came in on the hit and the score was tied.

The cheering bedies on both sides turned on all their vocal runs at this luncture—Bright College Years. "Boolab." The Undertaker," "Old Nassau," "He Rambled, and various other musical masterpieces. Sides made a fearfully wild heave on Clifford in the ninth and Clifford reached third. There were two out, and then and there was when Yale should have hit at the first good ball pitched. Van Vleck, however, let two good ones pass him and struck out on the third. Heyniger shot fast ones straight over.

Wister began the tenth by walking, but it did him no good, Dawson, Fish and Vaughn were unable to put the ball outside the diamond. In Yale's half Fels singled with one out. Jones forced him, Dines and Jones resorted to strategy. As Jones ran down to second Dines hit through the place left vacant by Dillon, who was to cover second, Jones reached third easily enough, went past it, and, his coacher failing to hold him close to the haven of safety, he was caught on throws by Warwick and Fish to Sides.

Bides and Heyniger, Princeton heroes with the cudgel, sent slashing singles to the outfield in the eleventh. One was to centre and the other to left, and the swift work of Clifford and Murphy in getting hold of the ball kept the hits down to one base each. Dillon moved the two along with a sacrifice. Harlan, the Princeton captain, was implored to break the ball in two, but his best was a fly to Fels. Warwick tundled a grounder to Dines. Dines fumbled and then threw wild to first. Sides and Heyniger stormed the plate successfully. Wister was cut down by Fels and Philbin.

The Yale folks were still rendering the laughing song when the Blue went to bat. Murphy and Williams were thrown out on grounders. Bomar, successor to Wheaton, put up a fly for Sides which that a thiete clawed for frantically and muffed. A single by Clifford just over Heyniger's head thickened the plot. Van Vleck grounded slowly to Dillon, was thrown out at first, and then the Princ

CHICAGO, June 16.—The White Sox got past the thirteen hoodoo to-day by handing the fourth successive jolt to Griffith's men in a game that was full of excitement and flerce wrangling. Walsh pitched a great game, the New Yorks doing almost nothing with his delivery, while Glade was very wild.

With one gone in the third, both Dougherty and Jones drew passes. They made a double steal on Blair and then Atz retired Dougherty on a grounder to Conroy. A wild pitch let Jones in a moment later, and when Stahl muffed Anderson's fly Atz hurried home.

Niles began the fourth with a whaling three bagger, Hemphill's fly to Dougherty scoring him. The visitors tied the score in the fifth. Ball walked and took second on a balk. Two infield outs sent Ball home. Sullivan dodged four in the sixth, Walsh sacrificed and Dougherty placed a lucky fly in right, sending Sullivan in. This proved to be all in the scoring line, for the Sox held their adversaries tightly gripped.

Newton pitched the eighth and in one short inning managed to stand for two bases on balls, a wild pitch and a single, and yet nobody scored. The score:
